

No Grain, No Gain

July's Casks In Focus

Port Dundas (Hogshead Cask, 250L)

FILLED IN 1999
22 YEARS OLD

LOWLAND SINGLE GRAIN WHISKY

Port Dundas Grain Distillery, a well known Glasgow distillery opened in 1811, was once Scotland's largest distillery and a founding member of conglomerate DCL, where it remained for over a hundred years. The distillery itself absorbed a number of it's neighbouring distilleries throughout the 1800's and into the early 1900's, yet despite several expansions throughout the 1900's, Diageo who purchased the distillery in 1997, decided to close and demolish the distillery in 2010/2011.

Filled in 1999 having recently turned 22 years old, these casks offer a rare opportunity of very well aged spirit from a distillery which is no longer in existence, offering significant allure and investment potential.

Invergordon (Hogshead Cask, 250L)

FILLED IN 2005
16 YEARS OLD

HIGHLAND SINGLE GRAIN WHISKY

Located in the North East of Scotland, Invergordon Distillery sits between the distilleries of Dalmore and Glenmorangie. It bucked the trend of Single Grain Distilleries being almost exclusively located in Scotland's Central Belt. Operating since 1961, Invergordon has been owned by Whyte & Mackay since 1993 and is a well known, much loved, Single Grain Scotch.

Filled in 2005, these casks are currently 16 years old, offering investors access to rare, well aged casks, offering excellent investment potential for years to come.

Why Invest in Whisky?

Whisky, being a tangible asset is a tax efficient, finite asset which offers investors double digit growth potential whilst being completely uncorrelated to traditional financial markets. In 2018, export of Scotch whisky reached a record level both in terms of size as well as value. Referring to data from HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC), the Scotch Whisky Association stated that the value of export of Scotch whisky in the previous year reached the level of £4.7 billion, which constitutes a growth by 7.8 per cent in comparison to 2017. Meanwhile, the equivalent of 1.28 billion of 0.7 litre bottles of Scotch whisky have been sent abroad, represents an annual growth of 3.6%. Whisky only ages in the cask and that is where, from an investment perspective, we see the most growth as the spirit continues to age.
