

OUR TOP CASKS FOR JUNE

Ben Nevis (Hogshead Cask, 250L)

FILLED IN 2011
ALMOST 10 YEARS OLD

HIGHLAND SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY

Close to Britain's highest mountain, Ben Nevis distillery is multi-award winning, known to be the last distillery in Scotland to induce fermentation the old way. Having started life in 1825, Ben Nevis soon became a very well respected Single Malt as well as a major component in the very successful MacDonald's and Long John's Dew brands.

Owned by Asahi (Nikka Whisky Distilling Co.) since 1989, in addition to a very well sought after Single Malt range the spirit is a major component in many leading Japanese and Scottish Blends.

Turning 10 years old this year, these casks offer an excellent investment opportunity, with recent sales of more aged Ben Nevis reinforcing very strong growth prospects both for mid and long term investors.

Dalmunach (Barrel Cask, 200L)

FILLED IN 2015
ALMOST 6 YEARS OLD

SPEYSIDE SINGLE MALT SCOTCH WHISKY

Opened by Chivas in 2014, Dalmunach is one of Scotland's newest and most contemporary distilleries. On the site of Imperial Distillery in Moray, it has been completely rebuilt in an environmentally and historically sensitive way, whilst enhancing the operation with the latest technology to bring the highest quality spirit. Their first bottling, a 4 year old variant has sold very well which marks the start of a very successful distillery both for Dalmunach and Chivas.

These casks offer the opportunity to purchase some of the earliest spirit from the distillery whilst being older than the bottles currently available on the market, providing an excellent opportunity for investors to benefit from the future success and bottlings from Dalmunach in the coming years.

Why Invest in Whisky?

Whisky, being a tangible asset is a tax efficient, finite asset which offers investors double digit growth potential whilst being completely uncorrelated to traditional financial markets. In 2018, export of Scotch whisky reached a record level both in terms of size as well as value. Referring to data from HM Revenue and Customs (HMRC), the Scotch Whisky Association stated that the value of export of Scotch whisky in the previous year reached the level of £4.7 billion, which constitutes a growth by 7.8 per cent in comparison to 2017. Meanwhile, the equivalent of 1.28 billion of 0.7 litre bottles of Scotch whisky have been sent abroad, represents an annual growth of 3.6%. Whisky only ages in the cask and that is where, from an investment perspective, we see the most growth as the spirit continues to age.
